Chennai, Feb 17: National Accreditation Board for Testing and Calibration Laboratories (NABL) certificates were received for 1,622 PHCs, he said, handing them over to 100 centres. These labs will conduct more than 60 common diagnostics tests. Barring the 159 PHCs under Greater Chennai Corporation, the directorate of public health attempted to standardize tests in 2,127 primary health centres across TN. These PHCs have already been approved for quality control by National Quality Assurance Standards (NQAS), and for quality of care in labour room and maternity theatres by LAQSHYA. Since 2020, the public health department has been doing quality checks on labs, said director of public health Dr T S Selva Vinayagam. Samples were collected from Christian Medical College, Vellore and lab results were compared. "For internal quality checks, lab will get results and must check if they tally with CMC results. External quality check is almost like an exam where results are verified by external staff," he said. Quality checks showed results were reliable and repeatable. "This means wherever they're done for how many ever times the results are the same." In 2023, five labs got certification and state wrote to NABL, seeking exemption certification fee of 17,000 for each. "Once this was granted, we applied for all labs and more than 70% have now been certified," he said. If tests are not available in these labs, technicians can take samples from patients, send them to higher centres and deliver results here.

Walmart wraps up Growth Summit

Chennai, Feb. 17: Walmart concluded its inaugural India Growth Summit, an event where export-ready suppliers, innovators and entrepreneurs representing 24 states and union territories participated in pitch meetings featuring products made, grown or assembled in India. Of the suppliers that participated, more than 80 percent received an invitation to move on to the next round.

To be invited to pitch, suppliers underwent a rigorous screening process to determine product export capabilities. As the list narrowed, invitations were sent out for the three-day Walmart Growth Summit where sellers and innovators met in New Delhi with more than 100 Walmart and Sam's Club associates to determine the potential for a future partnership.

"At Walmart, we see tremendous opportunity in India and that was seen in the quality products, sellers and innovators we met with this week. We are excited to continue serving as partners in India's economic growth," said Andrea Albright, Executive Vice President, Sourcing, Walmart. "Investing in high growth markets like India, helps us strengthen our relationships with established suppliers while also developing new relationships to build long-term surety and diversity of global supply. We also see huge potential in collaborating with some of India's brightest minds around value chain solutions."
